Research Experiences

My primary research interests focus on sexual violence and risky sexual behaviors. I also have secondary interests in PTSD and substance use. I maintain an active research team of graduate and undergraduate students with a focus on laboratory based experimental research examining 1) men's engagement in sexually violent behavior, 2) men and women's risk recognition for sexually violent behaviors, and 3) observer perceptions of sexually violent behavior. I have recently developed an alcohol administration laboratory to facilitate the understanding of intoxication as a precursor to sexual decision-making. Finally, I also conduct survey-based research to understand the correlates of sexually violent and risky behaviors, as well as factors related to successful substance abuse treatment and twelve-step engagement, such as readiness to change processes.

Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

2005 – present

Rowan University

Duties: Serve as the direct supervisor for undergraduate and graduate students of the Aggression, Substance, and Sexuality Research Team (ASSeRT), including chair of Master's Thesis and Doctoral Dissertation projects. Direct or maintain close involvement with the conceptualization, methodology, data collection, data analyses, and interpretation findings. Conduct weekly team meetings to discuss relevant research and work collaboratively on several active projects.

Assistant Professor

2004 – 2005

The College of New Jersey

Duties: Served as the direct supervisor for undergraduate students in my research laboratory. Directed the conceptualization, methodology, and data collection for several research projects. Conducted bi-weekly research team meetings to discuss relevant research.

Graduate Research Assistant

1998 – 2004

Kent State University, Kent, Ohio

Duties: Participated in individual and collaborative research projects dealing with person and situational influences of sexually impositional behavior.

Supervisor: Richard Hirschman, DMD, PhD

Research Assistant

1996 - 1998

California State University, Sacramento, California

Duties: Participated in individual and collaborative research projects dealing with cognitive priming and sexual harassment.

Supervisor: Lisa M. Bohon, PhD

Project Coordinator

1996 - 1998

Child Development Policy Advisory Committee, Sacramento, California

Duties: Assisted in providing policy analyses and advising to the California State Legislature and various state departments regarding children's issues.
