So, you’re thinking about Studying Abroad . . . Great!

Here are a few things you should consider:

• Studying abroad can help you experience a new culture, make friends from around the world, change the way you think, increase your independence, develop useful foreign language skills and much more!
• Just about every student can fit in education abroad. It just takes planning! Start planning your education abroad as soon as possible. Rowan’s Education Abroad webpage offers step-by-step instructions here: http://www.rowan.edu/home/education-abroad/appointments-what-expect
• You can study abroad during an academic semester, or during the summer or winter sessions.
• Rowan requires that students participate in a program through an "approved partner organization" or an "approved partner university." The list of approved partners is located on the Education Abroad webpage here: http://www.rowan.edu/home/education-abroad/program-options
• Once you review the Education Abroad webpage, it is important to consult both your Academic Advisor and an Education Abroad Advisor.
• Your Academic Advisor can help you take the proper courses during your semesters here at Rowan in order to satisfy your Psychology Major and graduation requirements. Check here for sample course sequences that include a semester abroad: https://academics.rowan.edu/csm/departments/psychology/advising/index.html
• Your Academic Advisor can also help determine whether the courses you plan to take while studying abroad will satisfy any of your major or elective requirements.
• The Education Abroad Advisor can help you find a program in a location and academic area of your choosing. Contact information for the Education Abroad Office can be found here: http://www.rowan.edu/home/education-abroad/contact-us
• Good luck! You are in for a fantastic experience!
